Most of life these days is spent indoors, often glued to technology. With work and family obligations, it can be hard to get outside and just breathe. Intuitively we know, and science has long acknowledged, we have a biological need to connect with nature. Spending time among towering trees can help create in us a sense of well-being. The Japanese have a name for this: shinrin-yoku or "forest bathing." dōTERRA captures this aromatic experience of well-being with Midnight Forest, a proprietary essential oil blend containing tree terpenes, with a fresh and distinctive aroma. The Siberian Fir and Wild Orange essential oils in Midnight Forest add to a calm and relaxed environment when used in a room or personal diffuser, and when applied topically. The Frankincense in the blend can help create a peaceful atmosphere when diffused. Even when you can't get outside, you can immerse yourself in nature with Midnight Forest.
