

SPIKENARD

Nardostachys jatamansi 5 mL

Woody, spicy, musty

Aromatic description

PRIMARY BENEFITS

- Promotes soothing feelings.
- Frequently used in aromatherapy and meditation for its grounding properties.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION

Spikenard, a flowering plant of the Valerian family, is native to high altitudes in the sub-alpine and alpine regions of the Himalayan mountains. Spikenard essential oil is steam distilled from the roots of the plant and has been valued for centuries, traditionally used to anoint people of high honour and in the Ayurvedic practices of India. Historically, Spikenard was used for its uplifting and relaxing qualities. Spikenard promotes healthy looking skin. Today, the oil is commonly used in perfumes and relaxing massage oils for its woody, musty scent. By sourcing Spikenard oil from Nepal, dōTERRA is able to help support much needed income streams for harvesters and partner distillers, particularly in the remote areas where it is harvested, as well as support rural community development projects through our Co-Impact Sourcing® initiatives.

USES

- Diffuse to promote soothing feelings.
- Create a personalised fragrance by combining Spikenard with Clove, Cypress, Frankincense, Geranium, Juniper Berry, Lavender, Myrrh, Wild Orange, Rose, and Vetiver in a carrier oil.
- Combine with a hydrating cream for softer and smoother feeling skin.
- Add one to two drops to your favourite cleanser to help promote healthy looking, glowing skin.
